Surrounded in Woods After Making Vain Attack at Millersburg.

Millersburg, Ohio, Aug. 15.—A gang of robbers is trapped in a wood near this town, and a posse of citizens is at work in an effort to take them either alive or dead. A company of state militia is on the scene, and it is believed a battle will be fought before the desperadoes are captured. Early yesterday morning the robbers made an attempt to rob the James D. Adams bank of this city. The alarm was given, spread quickly, and soon the town was awake. The bandits, seeing their exploit had failed, took to flight. On the way they stole horses and rigs from the farmers to assist them in their escape. The citizens were on the point of giving over the pursuit when the robbers were sighted twelve miles from here. Some shots were exchanged, but no damage was done. As soon as the bandits got to the woods they abandoned the vehicles. The woods are now surrounded.

LA FOLLETTE TO TAKE THE STUMP TO TALK AT THE COUNTY FAIRS

The Stalwarts Will Scatter the Populistic Seed Thus Planted as Fast as It Is Sown—Nils P. Haugan Said to Have His Eye on Spooner's Seat.

Milwaukee, Aug. 15—The publication of the text of the speech delivered by Nils P. Haugen at Superior, in which he bitterly attacked Senator Spooner, has started a bitter discussion throughout the state. The audience to whom the harangue was delivered was made up almost exclusively of Scandinavian countrymen of Haugen, and when he delivered himself of his parting shot at Spooner and capital, one of his hearers arose and nominated Nils P. Haugen for United States senator to succeed John C. Spooner. There was great cheering and clapping of hands, and Haugen, before taking his seat, bowed and smiled repeatedly, showing his satisfaction with the proposition.

Farmers Do Not Love Populism.

"If it could only be that way," said a leading republican today, "the senatorship would be settled now, for Spooner couldn't wish for an easier mark than Haugen. The farmers of Wisconsin are not in love with populism. They have been feeding on it for a long time, and a few of them have been won over to the theory that the man with money is a scoundrel and that there should be a party of the rich and a party of the poor, but these are mostly Bryanites.

The feeling seems to prevail in Milwaukee that the kind of talk indulged in by Haugen will clear the situation sooner than anything the stalwarts can do. They expect Governor La Follette to visit the fairs and take up the question of the corporations, strikes, and the pri mary election law, if his health will permit, and it is even reported that his long confinement at home has been with a view of recuperating for the campaign that is anticipated.

A report from Madison today is to the effect that the governor is much better and his friends expect him to resume his place soon in the executive office for the transaction of business. If La Follette goes on the stump at the county fairs this fall, it is believed that the circuit will contain other speakers, including J. G. Monahan, who will tell the farmers the other side of the story. He will not be allowed to sow the seed of populism unmolested.

As Shameful and Unjust.

Rasmus B. Anderson, unquestionably the leading Scandinavian-American in Wisconsin, speaking of the Haugen address today, said it was "absurd, shameful and unjust." Anderson says he regards La Follette and his machine responsible for it, and does not believe Haugen is competent to prepare thea speech delivered. "Personally," said Mr. Anderson, "I regard this as the beginning of the end of La Folletteism in Wisconsin."

Madison politicians at the hotels today say the speech has aroused indignation and disgust among some of the warmest supporters of Governor La Follette, who refuse to endorse by their silence any such assault on Senator Spooner.

The law passed two years ago creating the tax commission specifically states that the commissioners shall engage in no political work. It now remains for La Follette to say whether Haugen was "going it alone" or not.

NEW LINE OF FAST OCEAN STEAMSHIPS

Object is to Reduce the Passage Over the Atlantic to Four and One-Half Days.

London, Aug. 15—A statement made by Lord James of Hereford in the House of Lords last night foreshadows a new line of fast steamers between Great Britain and the United States. This announcement has caused a sensation in shipping circles where it is believed that American capital will own and operate the new line.

The announcement came with the second reading of a bill authorizing the building of a pier and other works at Berehaven, on the extreme southwest coast of Ireland. The object of the bill is to reduce the trans-Atlantic passage to four and one-half days. Fast steamships and special trains, it is claimed will make the journey from Berehaven to Padington Station, London, in thirteen hours.

The cost of the Berehaven works, together with an express line across southern Ireland and a channel ferry connecting directly the Great Western railroad for London, will be $4,500,000.

It is said that several bad loans caused the present condition of the bank. It was the only bank in a city with a population of about 2,500.

The agreement with the Roman Catholic board provides that after the entrance of the Roman Catholic children no distinction shall apply in regard to the regulation bill. They become public school children.

It is believed the terms will be accepted for all schools where nuns are not engaged.

GATLING INVENTS NEW MOTOR PLOW

Can Break a Thirty-Acre Field in a Day—Farming Will Be Revolutionized.

St. Louis, Aug. 15—Dr. R. J. Gatling, who invented the famous rapid fire gun bearing his name, has turned his attention toward farm machinery and proposes to revolutionize existing agricultural methods. Dr. Gatling is the inventor of a motor plow which will do from a comparative standpoint on the farm what his gun did on the field of battle. The claim is made by the great inventor that his plow, under the guidance of one man, will break the surface of a thirty acre field in a single day.

It is the intention of Dr. Gatling and a number of St. Louis promoters to place this invention on the market. Toward this end a secret conference was held this morning at the Southern hotel. Invitations signed by Lynn B. Brinson, president of the Brinson-Judd grain company, and Dr. Joseph E. Chambers were sent to a number of prominent business men. It is proposed to organize a stock company with not less than $1,000,000 capital.

Besides the motor plow there are other farm instruments that are being considered by the promoters. It is the intention to erect a large factory in St. Louis.

SINGLE BANDIT ROBS A STAGE

Holds Up a Load of Tourists in the Adirondacks.

SHOT THE HORSES

Men Flee to the Brush, Leaving the Women to Mercy of Road Agents.

PROVES A GALLANT

Albany, Aug. 15.—A stage robbery in the Adirondacks is something new, but one took place yesterday in broad daylight, two miles north of Dunlap's hotel at North River, on the road to Blue Mountain Lake. The stage had left Dunlap's on its daily trip up the mountain, and had reached a piece of woods through which the road winds at a heavy grade. Here a lone horseman, masked and armed to the teeth, came from the forest, and taking up a position in the road, ordered the driver to halt. The latter, surprised at the dime novel apparition, took the command as a bluff and urged his four horses on. The highwayman thereupon shot down the leaders and brought the stage to a sudden stop. Then, presenting himself at the door, he began to relieve the travelers of their pocket money. He afterward ripped open the mail pouches, took all the registered letters and rode off. The crime is the most daring of its kind that has ever been committed in the Adirondack region. The affair, serious though it was, was not without a humorous incident. As soon as the coach was brought to a stop three of the men passengers jumped off and took to the woods. The fourth male passenger had his wife with him and he likewise would have sought shelter had it not been that his wife grabbed his coat tails and delayed his progress. There were seven passengers in the coach, four men and three women. The highwayman treated the women with the utmost courtesy, remarking considerately that no harm would befall them if they simply kept quiet and handed over what available cash they possessed, along with their rings, watches and jewelry. The women, very naturally, were scared and one of them was seized with hysterics. When the coach was stopped the jolt caused the driver, Bill Eldridge, an old-timer in those regions, to fall from his seat and drop beneath the horses. He was injured and the highwayman did not disturb him, although he had a roll of bills in his pocket. After the bandit had departed the driver cut the harness from the dead horses, and then, with his scared party, drove back to Dunlap's hotel, where the story of the holdup was told. A party of ten men was organized and went in pursuit of the highwayman, intending to search the woods until he was found. It is supposed the highwayman secured upward of $1,000 by the robbery.

HEIMSTREET TO SUCCEED HIMSELF; SECRETARY OF BOARD OF PHARMACY

Janesville Druggist Again Honored by the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical Association at La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 15—The second day's session of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical association was a very busy one, a large amount of business being transacted.

The most important action was the nomination of Mr. E. B. Heimstreet, present secretary of the State Board of Pharmacy, to succeed himself on that body. Mr. Heimstreet has made a very efficient member and secretary of the board, and his endorsement this morning was a recognition that he was giving the very best of satisfaction in his official capacity.

Mr. Heimstreet was unanimously nominated as the first man of the three who are named each year for a place on the board and from whom the governor appoints a member.

W. H. Barr was nominated to be the second man on the list, and A. E. Miedling of Milwaukee was chosen to be the third man from whom Gov. La Follette will make his selection.

The report of Secretary Heimstreet was read by that gentleman and was listened to with great interest by the members. Mr. Heimstreet gave a lengthy account of the work accomplished by the state board and gave an account of each meeting held, and the number of applicants given certificates and the number refused.

Mr. Heimstreet said that the large number of failures was largely due to the fact that a student could not apply himself to the question answered and while he might be perfect on technical knowledge, he fell down on answers to common sense questions which arise every day in a drug store. He said that the board always attempted to give questions which would test the applicant's ability to perform the duties of the position he seeks to fill, and was thoroughly capable in every manner.

Milwaukee members of the convention are working hard to secure the 1902 convention for that city. The committeee on adulteration recommended that some steps be taken to stop the sale of soda waters concocted with adulterated sprups, which are poisonous. The program for today follows: Election of members, report of committees, election of officers, selection of place of meeting for 1902.

BEQUEATHS A FORTUNE TO FLAMES; WILL ORDERS BONFIRE OF $70,000

Minnesota Man Could Not Find a Charity Worthy the Gift—Charges His Executors to Burn It.

Faribault, Minn., Aug. 15—Seventy thousand dollars, left by Harvey Y. Scott, a pioneer who died on Sunday, will be burned if the provisions of his will are carried out.

Scott, who was a miser and an eccentric, amassed a fortune of $75,000, although some estimate it at $100,000. For years he had searched for some charity to which he might donate his fortune when he died, but after much talking with his bankers he declared he could find nothing worthy of the gift.

Orders Money Destroyed.

Sunday he died. His will was opened. In it he bequeathed $5,000 to his servant, who cared for him in his last illness, made a few minor gifts to persons who had been kind to him and a codicil to the will said:

"After all my funeral expenses have been paid I direct that my administrators gather up all of my cash in bank, and in the presence of witnesses, burn it till nothing is left but ashes."

Scott was one of the earlist settlers of this city and was 83 years old. He came here a poor man in 1854. He laid the foundation for his fortune by lending a few hundred dollars in the hard times in 1858, when interest rates were 3 and 4 per cent. per month. He was a successful farmer and close-fisted, but an honest man. He had a few relatives with whom he was not on good terms.

Burns $5,000 Before Death.

A month before his death Scott burned a lot of money, estimated at $5,000 and at about the same time removed one of the executors of the will because the executor argued with him against burning the money when so much good could be done by giving it to needy persons or worthy charities.

Scott's nephew, who lives here, will fight the will.

DR. W. P. ROBERTS OFFERS HIS BODY TO TEST DR. KOCH'S LATEST THEORY

The Janesville Physician Has Some Very Decided Ideas on the Communicability of Bovine Tuberculosis to Human Beings.

If the medical profession or the public press possesses a sincere desire to prove, or disapprove Dr. Koch's latest theory regarding the communicability of bovine tuberculosis to human beings, there are plenty human beings to be found who will be willing to act as provers.

Mr. T. L. Monson of the Rocky mountain regions is not the only person to "risk his life to aid science." Even if he was, and his offer accepted the test would not be satisfactory, for the reason that "one swallow does not make a summer." Consumption (tuberculosis) per se, is so easily cured in the first and second stage of the disease, I feel sure there can be plenty of people either those who have had tuberculosis and been restored, or those who never knew the sensation caused by the diagnosis, and prognosis of several experts, pronouncing their ultimatum of a "hopeless case only a matter of a few weeks, or months until you join the majority by the tuberculosis across the river styx."

The Koch fad of 1890 and '91, stirred the people from center to rim. The public press never before or since devoted so much space to publish anybody's theory. The truth of that theory was proven upon innocent victims of the "Great White Plague" with results which within one year from its introduction fell flat as does every fad, and fadlinktum brought to the attention of the truth seekers. But all honor to Dr. Koch. For his fad set molecules of thought in human brains into activity which has and is doing incalculable good to the human race.

His new theory will, in much shorter time prove a blessing to humanity, for the people out side of the medical profession will demand the proof. There will, within a few months spring up offers, of strong healthy people—men and women—similar to Mr. Monson's, and the profession will be compelled to make the experiments before committees appointed by the people and the educators, the public press. There can be found plenty of honest physicians to conduct such experiments.

I once was a victim of the scourge and was given up as a hopeless case of tuberculosis by five, as eminent physicians as were to be found in my native state. I was then in the last rim of the second stage of the disease having night sweats, swollen feet, and so emaciated as to weigh less than 100 lbs., could not walk half a mile without resting, etc. A change of climatic environments from Maine, to the upland prairies of Illinois, living in the open air having light, interesting employment for a few weeks caused a wonderful change in my health and in three months I was fully restored to a normal condition, since which time I have never had any fears of tuberculosis, or of taking it on from the "dry sputa" theory nor from the "bovine" theory.

I do not consider that in offering to become a prover along similar lines to what Mr. Monson offers, I am to act the part of the "hero" nor run one thousandth part as much risk to losing my life, or becoming a physical wreck as I would to submit myself to the diabolical "bovine" calf lymph.

Vaccination as it is practiced by the medical profession all over the world. To inoculate broken down (decomposed) animal tissue, pus, rot into the system of any human being is in my opinion a crime of ignorance that ought not to be tolerated any longer. To partake voluntarily of the bovine tubercular bacilli,, even though it should prove to produce the symptoms of tuberculosis in some of the provers. The effects can be easily antidoted by a change of climate.

Right here allow me to let in a little ray of light in advance of the oncoming proofs of the new Koch theory. If scientists having charge of such provingwere etotak of such proving were to take a score or more provers into the immune—from consumption—sections of a country and there make their tests, and then announce that Koch's new theory is proven. In my opinion such proof would not be a fair one. If there are a score of valient persons who belileve as I do that his new theory is provable let the management take every alternate prover who offers into some immune section and the other half into the most afflicted section and make their provings exactly alike other than climatic conditions. In this way there can be scientific data produced.

I have lived—as has every healthy person—more or less on bacetria of various kinds all of my life, and am willing to become one of the provers to test Koch's new theory. But first let me offer my services to go to Baraboo, and try on the science of the law of similars in treating successfully the victims of the typhoid-fever epidemic which is raging there. In Railroad Circles

The management of the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul road has started a campaign against the men who pays one fare and occupies two seats and who is commonly known as the "railroad hog." General Superintendent Goodnow has issued an order directed to train crews and conductors, calling their attention to the train rules and insisting that they be rigorously observed. Particular attention is called to the rule which provides that passengers shall not be permitted to occupy more seats than they pay for.

Conductors are told that this rule must be strictly construed and obeyed to the letter, especially when approaching large cities and in places where the passenger traffic is heavy The superintendent's attention was called to the matter by a series of written complaints which have been made to the management within the last few weeks. Many of the complaints came from passengers on the Milwaukee runs, and are to the effect that they have been unable to obtain seats owing to the fact that some "hog" was in painful and obtrusive evidence.

Some of the complainants were women, who state that they have been compelled to stand in the car while some man with a few grips occupied a double seat. Owing to the fact of heavy traffic this year the evil has become a great one on many lines, and other roads are said to be taking the matter into consideration with a view of eradicating it. As a rule, however, officials experience considerable difficulty in dealing with the question, and nothing short of a peremptory order will suffice to incite train crews to the performance of their duties in this respect.

HAY FEVER IS NOT A DISEASE

J. H. Comiskey of Charlestown, O arrived at the Hotel Blatz yesterday morning. Later on to a Sentinel reporter he talked for publication and this is what he said:

"People are not sneezing this summer. I see the Sentinel this morning gives us poor hay fever sufferers great hope of relief for this year.. Now, in the first place, it is time for the August variety of hay fever to show up, and in the second place, one of the causes of hay fever mentioned in The Sentinel this morning is only imaginary. I have been a victim of hay fever for twenty-five years, and am very sorry to be able to tell of some of its causes and effects.

"Hay fever is not a disease; it is simply a condition produced by properties that invite nasal and bronchial catarrh. Hay fever cannot be cured until there is found a specific for catarrh, which is not yet. Hay fever once, hay fever always. Those who claim to have had it and been cured never had it. Hay fever commenced twenty-five years ago, with violent sneezing during the ragweed season, which begins about the 14th of August in central Ohio and ceases about the middle of September. This condition continued for about ten years, when, as the catarrh gradually decended from the nasal passage down into the bronchial tubes, the rag weed season carried hay fever thither and produced an asthmatic affection that all the patent medicine men and knowing physicians can only slightly relieve—say nothing of cure. The golden rod in itself has nothing to do with hay fever. Its bushy plumage is developed just in time to catch the yellow pollen blown from the rag weeds, and on being shaken up, gives out this poison that is foreign to itself. I came to Milwaukee from eastern Ohio with the hope of finding a haven of relief from the trouble but after making some inquiry am led to believe that the Lake Superior district is the only sure territory The only relief we have ever been able to find is from inhaling the fumes from the burning of asthma powders, and from hypodermic injections of narcotics."

Blueberries are Failing.

The toothsome blueberry, the most lucious of fruits, and one of the chief natural products of Northern Wisconsin is threatened with extermination. The crop becomes smaller and smaller every year and prices higher and higher. The bushes are disappearing in some unaccountable manner. Unless something is done for their preservation we must bid a long farewell to blueberry pie. We are prepared to stand the loss of the forest, but not the loss of the delicious pie fruit the finest in the world.

REFEAT REFUSAL TO STRIKE

South Chicago Steel Workers Refuse to Rescind Vote.

LOSE THEIR UNION CHARTER.

Tighe Declares Not Financial Aid Is Wanted by Amalgamated Association but Moral Support—Meeting Gives Respectful Hearing but No Applause.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The steel workers of South Chicago last night stood by their decision not to strike. They refused to reconsider their action of Sunday. As a result Michael F. Tighe, assistant secretary to President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association, revoked the charter of the two lodges, Lakeside Lodge No. 9 and Commercial Lodge No. 14. Mr. Tighe declared emphatically that he did not come west to seek financial assistance, but the moral support of the South Chicago men. During the evening Mr. Tighe also received notice that the lodges at Joliet had decided formally not to strike. The action of the South Chicago men in refusing even to consider the request of Mr. Tighe is thought to be one of the severest blows the great steel strike has received. The men of South Chicago defend their position by declaring that Mr. Tighe and the officers of the Amalgamated association are not familiar with the conditions here. They will surrender their charters at the next regular meeting, but will endeavor to maintain their organization under a different name. In the future they will have no connection whatever with the Amalgamated association. The meeting was called to order at 7:30, having been delayed a half hour to await the arrival of Mr. Tighe. When he entered with Vice-President Davis he found seventy-two members of Lakeside and Commercial lodges ready to listen. Mr. Davis called the members to order, with John Withington as secretary. Mr. Tighe immediately took the platform and began to speak. He spoke for nearly two hours, calmly presenting the conditions as he saw them. He told how much the strikers needed the assistance of the west, and related how the great steel corporation was magnifying the desertion of the western men and declaring that the strike was broken. The members listened to him quietly and respectfully, not once interrupting him with applause. At the conclusion of Mr. Tighe's address George W. Shepherd and Mr. Collins spoke in behalf of the South Chicago men. After the meeting Mr. Tighe said: "I came west in search of union men, not for financial assistance. I found one—William C. Davis, our vice-president. I presented the cause to the men fairly and pleaded with them not to let the east fight this battle alone. I told them the benefit their moral support would be to the men who are arrayed against the steel corporation."

CARNEGIE PLANT HIT HARD.

Several Skilled Men Said to Have Left Their Places.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—The Lower Union plant of the Carnegie company was an hour late in starting today and the strikers claim that they have the mill seriously crippled. Several skilled men left the place yesterday and joined the strikers and the latter claim to be able to tie the plant up.

The officials say the loss of ten of the men can be directly traced to the threats of the strikers, who intercept the men on the way to and from work. The same complaint is made as to Bellaire, Wheeling and McKeesport. They say that the strikers at Riverside went to Bellaire and literally bluffed the remaining men into going out. They also claim that the same tactics gained the strikers the steel workers in the National Tube plant at Benwood and also forced out hundreds of loyal employes at McKeesport.

The officials declare they have given up hope of getting protection from the local authorities at McKeesport and Wheeling but have given no indication that they intend to ask for state aid either in Pennsylvania or West Virginia.

The strike leaders on the other hand, insist that they are proceeding entirely within their rights and the law and that any recruits won by them have been obtained by means entirely fair.

Monett After Steel Combine.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—Former Attorney-General Monnett, an attorney for the Anti-Trust League, has filed with the secretary of state a list of interrogatories concerning the status of the constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation doing business in Ohio. The secretary of state declined to make public Mr. Monnett's letter, but stated no answer had been made to it. Mr. Monnett asks what records have been filed by the companies in question and if none have been filed what action has been taken to recover the penalties provided for noncompliance with the law.

Colorado Called Upon.

Denver, Col., Aug. 15.—President H. F Garman of the State Federation of Labor has been called to a conference of labor leaders at Pittsburg over the steel strike, and the move is taken as an indication that organized labor in this state will help furnish the sinews for the battle of giants in the industrial world. President Garman has not decided whether he can find time to go.

Kentucky Towns Inundated.

Middleboro, Ky., Aug. 15.—Damage amounting to thousands of dollars has been done by rains to citizens of this section, especially those who occupy the valley farms. It has been raining for several days and there are no signs of abatement. A large portion of this valley is inundated. A suburb of Middlesboro is under water, but the damage is slight. Stonega, Va., was visited by a waterspout, which compelled three-fourths of the inhabitants to flee for their lives. The damage in that section is beyond estimation. Cumberland and Powell rivers have both risen. Reports of floods come from all parts of the mountain districts.

Held for Criminal Neglect.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—George B. McClemmy, proprietor of the grocery store at Tenth and Locust streets, in which, on Monday of last week, an explosion of gasoline occurred, resulting in the death of eight persons and the injuring of about forty others, was arrested today on a warrant issued by Coroner Dugan. McClemmy is charged with criminal negligence in keeping explosive oil in the cellar of his store. He was injured in the explosion and is at present confined to his bed. He will be kept under police surveillance until he is able to appear at the inquest, the date of which has not yet been decided.

Man and Wife Murdered.

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 15.—The bodies of James Sanderson and his wife were found last night at their home, near Heathsville, Ill., cold and stiff and with the appearance of having been dead for hours. Sanderson was a rough lumberman and his wife, Eunice, was twenty years his junior. They lived in a small house and seemed to have a hidden mystery connected with their lives. There is little doubt but that the couple were murdered. Sanderson had often remarked that he had a secret enemy who would kill him.

CLEVELAND CALAMITY.

Later Particulars of the Water Works Tunnel Catastrophe.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 15.—Five men were suffocated in the new water works tunnel fire and three workmen were drowned as the result of the calamity.

The new water works tunnel, crib No. 2, caught fire and was almost demolished. Three gangs of tunnel workmen, who live at the crib, were caught like rats in a trap, and either had to jump into the lake and possibly drown, or else go back into the tunnel to a probable death by suffocation. It is known that at least three men were rescued. They belonged to the shift that was resting at the time and were forced to jump into the lake to escape death by fire.

At 4 a. m., when tugs reached the scene, the fire had died down somewhat. The life-saving crew, the fire tug Cleveland, and tugs Lutz, Sprankle, Kenny and S. S. Stone were on the scene, but nothing could be done to learn whether the men in the tunnel were alive or dead, because the structure was still burning. The firemen had the flames under control at 4:30 a. m.

The opinion of some was that the tunnel men had perished for want of air. Others thought they were safe, as the compressed air was possibly not shut off.

The tug Sprankle brought twenty-two badly burned men to shore, where several of them were taken in ambulances to hospitals.

It is certain that eight men met It is certain that ten men met death at the crib and it is likely more lost their lives.

Dead and Injured.

Following is a list of the dead so far as known: Arthur Hasty, drowned; A. Hastings, burned; Plummer Jones, dies from suffocation after trying to rescue imprisoned men; John Kowolsy, drowned; John Martine, drowned; Mark Snyder, drowned; four unidentified men, burned. The injured so far as known: O. Braddock, burned; David Kelly, rescuer, overcome by gas; John Leese, back broken; will die; Charles Smith, overcome by gas. The men still imprisoned in the tunnel are Victor Kauffman of Canton, John Enging, and Adam Kest.

Kodol Digests what you Eat
Dyspepsia Cure
Dyspeptics cannot regain health and strength by living upon half rations. They must eat plenty of good food and digest it. To enable them to do this they should use something that will help the stomach do its work. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE is such a preparation. It digests what you eat and supplies the substances needed to build up the worn out digestive organs.
Prof. J. Ivison, of Lonaconing, Md., says: "For thirteen years I suffered agony from dyspepsia and neuralgia of the stomach. I tried almost everything and doctors drugged me nearly to death with morphine, but temporary relief was all I could obtain till I was advised to use KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. The first dose gave me relief. I bought my first bottle in March, 1900, and I have not had a single pain since. It has completely cured me. I cannot endorse it too highly."

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Generally fair tonight and Friday. Cooler.

Hot Weather Food

Imagine a man wearing the heaviest of overcoats over a winter suit of clothes and underwear during the heat of summer, and you have a picture of the individual who does not properly arrange his diet according to the season, eating the same food in summer as in winter is the same as wearing the same clothes in summer as in winter.

Our lack of knowledge excuses in our diet what our sense of feeling will not allow in raiment.

One of the commonest of warm weather diseases is stomach and intestinal derangement, due we say to the "hot weather."

Hot weather never produced such effects any more than cold weather, providing we change our food and exertion with the weather.

During summer food should be simple and meals infrequent, for those who suffer most "from the heat" are suffering from artificial heat which they create by over-feeding and over-stimulating.

We are apt to fill our stomach with a complete meal, generously flavored with salt, pepper and vinegar, sugar, mustard and Worcestershire sauce, black coffee and wines, and then rave about the heat.

Such a meal means a small steel range or blast furnace giving out heat and energy with lavish hand.

Two of our three meals can well consist of fruit and cereals which furnish nourishment unaccompanied by any great quantity of heat.

Beans and peas are so full of muscle and energy that they can be substituted for meat during the summer months, furnishing muscle building material minus the heat producing ingredients.

A word in regard to summer drink which form so large a portion of our food. The best thing that can be said of them is that they are liquid and largely composed of water.

No one doubts that alcohol drinks stimulate the head to more vigorous action and create consequently a great amount of heat; and what is true of strongly alcoholic drinks is true only in a lesser degree of the so called soft drinks.

The cool taste of these drinks fool people into the belief that they are cooling, and another and another glass is taken until the system is in such a condition as to make even moderate exertion a dangerous thing. "Root beer" made without roots, ginger ales innocent of ginger and nerve tonics injurious to nerves, should all be avoided during the warm weather.

What Spain Thinks of Schley.

Admiral Cervera: "Admiral Schley accomplished fully the work allotted to him, and there does not seem to be any room for adverse criticism, at least from Americans. Your ships went straight to work probably without much commanding."

Captain Moreu of the Colon:

"All the American officers without exception did their duty at the battle of Santiago. The Brooklyn was the first to encounter us, and to the Brooklyn we surrendered. Of all the American ships the Brooklyn was the most exposed to the fire of our ships. Schley directed that all the officers retain their personal effects; a coward is never generous. The suggestion of cowards probably came from cowards."

Lieutenant Capriles, Governor of Santiago:

"I was on the Viscaya and saw the fight. I should be ashamed of my manhood, of my country and of the people who, though having beaten us, treated us as brothers, if I did not bear testimony that Schley is a brave and accomplished officer and that the Brooklyn played a distinguished part in the battle of Santiago."

The Lottery Scheme.

The so-called lottery plan adopted by the government for the disposal of the Indian lands in Oklahoma seems to have been fair to all concerned. It is not to be classed with private lottery schemes. There is no money lost by those unfortunate enough not to draw a claim. It is merely a decision by lot in order to prevent the bloodthirsty land grabbing which has characterized all previous openings of public lands. Although something like 15,000 people were disappointed they have the satisfaction of knowing they lost fairly. Those who drew claims are not merely speculators but are for the most part homesteaders and intend becoming full fledged citizens. The government could have made a great deal of money by selling to the highest bidder, but the long established policy is to make the land cost the homesteader as little, not a much as possible.

Old Neptune has seen several British yachts crooss the Atlantic to lift our cup, but they always went back with knots in their tails.

Most of us, if we had to work in steel mills this weather, would be glad for a chance to strike.

Emperor William's whiskers may or may not have any connection with the Boer war.

England claims we have purchased an Egyptian boat 4,000 years old for our navy. No, we simply got it to defend the America cup.

LARGEST SALE OF LEAF TOBACCO

Sylvester & Sons of New York, Have Sold Their Entire 1900 Packing of 3,000 Cases.

The largest sale of leaf tobacco made in this city was consummated lately when Sylvester & Sons of New York, sold their entire 1900 packing, consisking of 3,000 cases, to the American Cigar company, of New York.

The entire packing was of a high grade and a good price was obtained for it. Mr. H. S. McGiffin, their agent in this city, who bought and put up the packing, stated that the amount received for the goods was not given, but it was a good sale.

Three thousand cases of tobacco at the present market price must have amounted to something over $100,000. The indications that the present crop will be a short one has started the big Eastern buyers after the 1900 crop and it is being bought up all over the country wherever it can be found.

Mr. McGiffin has been very successful in getting hold of some of the best crops in the state for his firm. In many cases he paid a little extra for the crops, but is satisfied that the prices received by his firm for the goods justified it.

Dealers all through the country through their agents are keeping close watch on the present crop, which if it is harvested without any bad luck, will soon be bought up.

LOCAL GOLFERS WIN AT ROCKFORD

Nate and Earl Kelley Carry Off the Sweepstake Prizes in a Match Game.

Janesville golfers are coming to the front away from home and keeping up the reputation of the Sinnissippi Golf club. Yesterday at Rockford in a handicap sweepstake, in which most of the players of the Rockford Country club took part, Nate and Earl Kelley, sons of Conductor and Mrs. F. M. Kelley formerly of this city, succeeded in carrying off both the first and second prizes.

The boys picked up their knowledge of the game while caddying for members of the Sinnissippi club in this city. They took to the game naturally and could both play a good game before they left here. They are both under fifteen years of age and it is remarkable that they should win out against a bunch of seasoned players.

Their scores show that they are playing good golf, when the "bogy" score of the course is 38. Earl Kelly made the round of eighteen holes in 96, and had a handicap of 14, which gave him a net score of 82. His brother Nate, played it in 97 and had a handicap of 12, or a net score of 85. Frank Keeler, who played at scratch, was their nearest opponent, and turned in a score of 88. The boys are much elated over their victory.

MRS. KRUSE WANTS BACK HER BOY; MAY TAKE THE CASE INTO COURT

Still She Feels Undecided—If the Boy's Position is Bettered She May Not Contest—A Lot of Contradictory Stories Sifted.

Nearly frantic with grief over the loss of her foster child and worried over the notoriety which the case has received, Mrs. Charles Kruse of this city has practicaly deserted her home at the detention hospital, where everything reminds her of the little boy whom she loves and has lost, and spends the greater part of her time with neighbors. Every day and sometimes twice a day she writes to the Wisconsin Childrens' Home Society in Milwaukee, from whom she received the boy and through whose agency he has been taken from her, asking for the return of the little one for whom her heart yearns.

Failing in that she begs that she may at least know where the little fellow's home is and seee the woman who has supplanted her in the privilege of giving him a mother's care. If she must give up the child she feels that she would be much more contented if she could knaw all about the child's new home.

She feels that it is no more than her right after she has cared for the boy four years to be allowed to keep track of his future life and at least be permitted to see him occasionally.

It is a Strange Story.

The story is a strange one with many complications and owing to Mrs. Kruse's unwillingness to talk for publication it is exceedingly difficult to get at the true facts of the case. It has attracted considerable attention in Milwaukee which is the society's headquarters which first secured the home for the baby boy with Mr. and Mrs. Kruse and has now taken him and placed him in another home in another city in the state to be brought up with his own twin brother, the boys having been separated from each other ever since they were a few weeks old.

Facts in the Case.

These are the facts in the case as related yesterday by Secretary Charles E. Crain of the society in his office in the Loan and Trust building, Milwaukee: In March, 1897, the twins were born. A few hours after their birth the mother died and the father closed the incident so far as he was concerned by turning the children over to the officers of the Children's Home society. Nine weeks later the twins were separted. One was adopted by a family of wealth and social standing in the state, but the society declines to give the name or address of this family. The other was given to Kruse, who at that time lived with his wife at Mineral Point, Wis. Shortly after securing the child, whom they named Willie Kruse, the Kruses moved to Janesville.

Kruse is a laborer and in comparatively moderate circumstances, yet the society admits he has supported the child ever since the adoption without asking or receiving the slightest financial aid from the society.

Meanwhile the wife of the man who adopted Willie's brother was delighted. On several occasions she expressed regret that she had not adopted both boys and notified the officers of the society that she was both ready and anxious to reunite the foundlings by formally adopting Willie.

Denies Willie Was Kidnaped.

The society denies that Willie was kidnaped from Mrs. Kruse and declare that it was at her suggestion and with her knowledge and consent that the society again took charge of the boy. The officers admit that Mr. Kruse knew nothing about it, but claim that they possess both the legal and moral right to take the boy from Kruse without consulting him in the matter, inasmuch as he had never completed the adoption papers.

Interview With Mrs. Kruse.

Mrs. Kruse was seen this morning by a representative of The Gazette. When seen she was at the home of Mrs. W. H. Phelps, who lives on Sharon street and who has written to the Milwaukee office of the society on behalf of Mrs. Kruse. the society on behalf of Mrs. Kruse says she stays at Mrs. Phelps' most of the time because she cannot stand it to remain at home. She says unless the boy comes back she will have to move away from the place where everything reminds her of him.

The strange part of the affair is that Mrs. Kruse now denies that she ever said the boy was taken from her by force. She denies her former story almost entirely although both the newspaper reporter who interviewed her and Chief of Police Hogan, who accompnied him, are agreed as to the statements which she made and which she now denies. She admits, however, that she was very much excited when she told her story Tuesday evening and that she may have said things which gave the gentlemen a wrong impression. This certainly is the most charitable view to take of the case.

She cried bitterly and answered questions very carefully although she was somewhat incoherent in her statements. From the entire interview it was gathered, however, that the sociev is not so much to blame as at first appeared.

Mrs. Kruse says that Mrs. Merriam promised her that she should know where Willie went and that she could go to see him. Now the society refuses to allow this and it makes her burden of sorrow heavier to bear. She says that the child has always been weakly until this past spring and that she and her husband have cared for him tenderly. She thinks she has a right to some interest in his future.

To Fight in Court.

The idea of fighting for the child in court was a new thought to Mrs. Kruse, although she had already consulted an attorney. She is undecided what to do although she wants the boy back and says her husband declares that he will fight for him fifty years. She laughed at the idea of any charge of brutality and says that Mr. Kruse was even more indulgent than she and never laid his hand on the child. She realizes that it is perhaps better for the boy to grow up with his brother but he has endeared himself to her until his loss seemes unbearable. She says she does not intend to leave her husband and they both want the boy. She has no hard feeling toward the society. The fact that her brother-in-law was interested in the case is emphasized by the fact that he requested the society not to make his name known as he was afraid Kruse migh make trouble.

PLIGHT THE SACRED VOWS OF MARRIAGE

Wedding of Miss Mary Kirk and Geo. Williamson Last Evening at the Home of Bride's Mother.

The sacred vows of marriage were never plighted under happier surroundings or on a more auspiciuos occasion than at the beautiful home wedding at which the marriage of Miss Mary Kirk and George Wiliamson, both well known young people of this city, was solemnized.

The happy event took place at the home of the bride's mother, 364 Glen street, last evening, the ceremony being performed at half after six o'clock. Acompany of about forty relatives and friends witnessed the impressive ceremony which transformed Miss Kirk to Mrs. Williamson. The parlors were beautifully decorated in white and green, smilax, ferns and carnations being used in profusion and with exquisite effect. In the parlor where the ceremony was solemnized broad bands of white ribbon were looped from the central chandelier to the corners of the room. In one corner there was a handsome canopy made of a mass of green and white, the beauty of the blossoms being enhanced by the background of rich foliage. A novel and pretty effect was produced by the suspension of a myriad of tiny decorative bells by white ribbons from the canopy.

As soon as the guests were assembled 'the immortal melody of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Marie Paulson, floated throug the roomes and the bride and groom, preceded by Rev. J. T. Henderson pastor of the Presbyterian church, came down the stairs, the banisters of which were wound with white ribbons intertwined with smilax. The bridal couple was unattended and stood beneath the floral canopy while Rev. Henderson read the beautiful marriage service.

After the ceremony and congratulations an elaborate and very elegant wedding supper was served, the guests being seated at two long tables and smaller ones, all of which were daintily decorated with cut flowers. The supper was faultlessly served, Miss Babel Best having charge of the tables and being ably assisted by Miss Leona Knipschield Anna Luke and Myrtel Dewey.

The bride is a young woman of brilliant ability and charming personality. Her gracious manner has won for her many friends who wish her all the happiness and prosperity that life may hold in store. For several years she was head book keeper in the office of F. M. Marzluff & Co.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Williamson of this city, and is an enterprising young business man, being traveling salesman for M. D. Wells & Co., a wholesale shoe firm of Chicago. His territory is Minnesota and the Dakotas with headquarters at Fargo, N. D. It is probable that Fargo will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, although this has not been definitely settled. The newly married couple have gone east on a wedding trip and will be absent about a month visiting relatives at Portsmoth, the Buffalo exposition and other places of interest. They will return to this city about Sept. 15. Among the guests from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kinney of Chicago, Mrs. J. Clarkin of St. Paul, Minn., and Edward Williamson of Davenport, Iowa.

ADVANCE PRICE ON MILK AND BUTTER

LOCAL DEALERS TALKING OF A RISE IN NEAR FUTURE.

Many of the Surrounding Farmers Have Sold Their Cows on Account of the Lack of Feed—Very Little Milk is Shipped in Here on Railway Trains.

The milk and butter famine does not seem to have made much difference in the prices in this city as yet. The dealers are still asking about the same price for both commodities, although they say they look for an advance very soon.

Very little milk is shipped in from outside places by the dealers in this city and most of those who do ship have yearly contracts so that the advance in the price of milk in the larger cities does not bother them very much.

Many farmers in this vicinity have disposed of their cattle on account of the lack of feed and this will lead to a raise in the price of milk but not to any marked degree.

The local milk dealers are now talking of raising the price of milk in the near fture as there is not enough margin at the present price to pay them for their work. Those who buy their milk from the farmers pay three cents per quart for it and where they furnish it in large quantities to hotels and restaurants they make about half a cent a quart. At private dwellings they get five cents per quart but are put to the extra trouble of delivering it.

It is not believed that the people would pay seven cents per quart for milk but would used condensed milk first.

Farmer's butter is a scarce article in the city market. Most of the commission houses are unable to fill orders for farmers' butter and many of the milk dealers that handle it have been obliged to fill their orders with cold storage butter. In the last two days the price of butter in city markets has risen from 19 to 21 cents and may reach winter prices.

The stock yards in Milwaukee and Chicago have been crowded with cattle of late, most of them coming from Wisconsin and Iowa. The drouth and prospects of feed at high prices this winter has brought cattle down to a low figure. Many farmers have already disposed of their cattle and many others are doing so.

Milk dealers in Milwaukee are already paying 90 cents a can for milk and expect soon to pay $1. The dealers say they will get their milk from points a greater distance from Milwaukee before they will pay $1 per can.

KAISER OR PUPPET?

ATTITUDE OF WILHELM II AND HIS PEOPLE ON EXPANSION.

German Hatred of England—Wilhelm's Anglomania Unpopular. Problems of Greater Germany. Teuton, Saxon or Slav.

[Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.]

WHAT has destiny in store for Germany? This question is called up by the commercial situation in the fatherland quite as sharply as by the social unrest of the German people and the ambition of the kaiser.

The young emperor of Germany is a factor to be reckoned with in European affairs as much as was Bismarck in his prime. Bismarck had Germany with him in his greatest battles. It remains to be seen whether Kaiser Wilhelm will rally the nation to his side or present the sad spectacle of a king without a country. When the kaiser visited England, the British people fell upon his neck, so to speak, in the notion that they had in Germany an ally which at the time they very much needed. But the German chancellor, on being asked in the reichstag to explain the political significance of the emperor's friendliness, said that it meant nothing.

But the question put to the chancellor had a world of meaning in it, for it is a fact that whenever Count Bulow has spoken of the Anglo-German relations before the reichstag in a serious mood his words have been greeted with laughter. And the laughter is caused not so much by the subject in hand as the chancellor's treatment of it, for to one acquainted with the idioms of the German tongue the words are found to be words of jocose irony aimed at England. "They carry more meaning to his German hearers than meets the British mind," says an English diplomat in The Fortnightly Review, "and what the reichstag understands them to expound are the merits of pursuing a profitable policy toward this country in a thinly veiled spirit of benevolent contempt."

The writer says further that the attitude in which the chancellor most pleases the anti-English gallery of the reichstag is just what pleases him personally, but even if he dislikes it he would have to resort to it in order to manage his audience. In a lengthy paper the diplomat draws a sharp distinction between the kaiser and his people and says flatly that the chancellor's explanation that the visit to England was meaningless was the only one his hearers would have tolerated. The telegram of the kaiser to Kruger in 1899 was the most popular act of Wilhelm's reign and the bestowal of the Order of the Black Eagle upon Lord Roberts during his visit to England the most unpopular. The visit and the bestowal of the decoration signified a breach between the German emperor and the German people. This leads to the speculation on Germany's future, whether people or kaiser will be the stronger in a crisis; whether the kaiser will rule or be ruled.

Just as the prestige of England among the powers of earth has resulted from her naval strength, so the prestige of Germany has rested upon her army and her military renown. But of late Germany has had nothing to do to keep her scutcheon bright. Enemies upon land she has none to threaten her at present. A powerful army may command the respect of experts, but if that army has no foes to keep in awe the respect of nations is certain to fall away. The kaiser launched the expedition to China with great eclat, and Germany was expected to lead the powers in military achievement. The whole affair was a fizzle. There was no military glory to be won in China, and the renowned soldiers of Germany cut no greater figure in the field than the English or Japanese. Instead of bearing off the palm of leadership, Germany has come down to the level of ordinary nations and must begin over again to prove that her army is the best in the world

The kaiser says, "The future of Germany lies on the water." He wants a great navy to cope with that of England and perhaps the United States. This looks like a dream of territorial expansion and may aim at the unification of the Teutonic race. But if the kaiser's dream does not carry along the German people, Bismarck effected the unification of Germany—that is, the Germany proper. But the movement of 1870 was a popular one. Prussia stood at the head of the German states. She had humbled Austria and subdued the smaller kingdoms. She had Bismarck and Moltke and a wonderful army. The little peoples wanted to be in the same boat with Prussia, to share her laurels and her spoil. Bismarck simply used the elements at hand. The masses were ready for unification, and he gave the pretext for action by bringing about war with the hereditary enemy of all the German states.

Ambitious Germans do not like the idea that the future lies with the Anglo-Saxon race and the Slav. They recall the glories of the old German empire, the achievements of their race in war, in learning, in art and in material progress. The Germans have been great traders. In 1870 they said that the German language was the language of commerce throughout the orient. Even then the boldest said that it would only be a question of time when the Teuton would control the commerce of the world by reason of his training and intellectual equipment Perhaps the kaiser looks still further ahead and sees that the development of sea power involves a still wider range of activity. The man behind the desk will need the man behind the gun to prop him up on the stool.

But the people of the kaiser's realm have today no fixed political idea in common except it be hatred of England. The empire is split up with agrarianism, socialism, clericalism, and militarism is not so popular as it was for a generation after Sedan. A pan-Teutonic movement will surely strike deep, but that it will sweep the country as did the unification movement in 1870 may be doubted. The number of common people who are satisfied to let well enough alone is growing every day. The kaiser will not relish being at the head of a second rate power in anything, and of course he will find supporters for his ambition.

If it comes to a question of isolation for Germany or of being wiped out commercially by other powers, the jingo spirit of the nation and the race may rise. Isolation stared Germany in the face when the powers moved on China. The appointment of Count Waldersee to lead the military forces of the allies brought the name of Germany to the front again in all its glory. Who would dare essay decision upon the destiny of any land in Europe or Asia without consulting the leading military power of the world upon the heels of a mighty triumph in the conquest of China? The horrible vision of isolation then vanished from the German mind. Nothing but the alliance with England staved off a relapse after the grand fizzle of the campaign and the evacuation of Chi-li by the allied forces. And now, if talebearers from the inside are to be believed, the Anglo-German alliance is only a diplomatic deal not cemented and not likely to be by the people of Germany, who must be depended upon to make the alliance worth anything in the crisis for which alliances are supposed to exist—a test of brute force.

Germany's internal problems are the struggle between industrialism and agriculture. Industry wants the world for a market and the sea for a highway; so, while the kaiser and his adherents cry that the future of Germany lies on the sea and in a powerful navy, there is another element saying that the land is the source of wealth and militarism a drain upon the nation. While the spirit of imperialism holds sway the kaiser will not be left alone in his ambitions, but self interest in the nation may carry the spirit beyond the realms of diplomacy. The kaiser may be willing to make a noise, to cut a figure, but when the German people get about it they will want something more than glory for the crown. They will not be content to stand second to England nor the United States in the field of foreign trade.

In any event the future of Germany depends upon whether the Teutons can be held together. The unification of Germany was a move to abolish weakness and eliminate petty principalities. Since then the southern provinces have tested union and may or may not love the empire of the present. Still, if the present empire holds together politically, it is not a union of all the Teutons, who number between Hamburg and Triest almost as many as the white population of the United States, or about 70,000,000, which is 20,000,000 more than the white population of the whole British empire.

For right or wrong, for weal or woe,
The patient Germans onward go.

is the picture of the poet to describe the march of the armies from across the Rhine in the Franco-Prussian war. What may not 70,000,000 people with a common cause with zeal and patience accomplish? Problems lie at the door of Germany. After the peoples are united under one banner, then, ho, for the Persian gulf, for Asia Minor and new fields of settlement and growth! The Teutonic race is a virile one and increases at a higher rate than any other among civilized people. It must have room to expand.

If the kaiser really loves England, he will favor expansion to the south and east and forestall Russia at Constantinople. That will be playing into the hands of England and give the Teutonic race a mission and a high destiny. Then will Wilhelm II go down to history as the creator of a new world power, a second Charlemagne.

Church Attendance.

Church attendance is not to be secured simply by making it possible for men to attend. They must either wish to go to church or be made to feel that it is their duty to do so. How this shall be brought about is a problem for the pulpit itself.—New York World.

OUT OF IT

When Mr. James Ashton Tarraway was asked to organize a dramatic entertainment in aid of the choir funds, he smiled and accepted with alacrity. He had always taken an intelligent interest in the drama. As an amateur actor he had never had scope, but now his chance had come.

But at his first essay, flushed with enthusiasm and fired with hope, he went at once to invoke the aid of the Parkinsons.

Would they help? Of course they would. Further, they would get the Maxwell Smiths to help, too, and the Maxwell Smiths were splendid, especially George. Between the Parkinsons and the equally numerous Maxwell Smiths there were an alliance and a friendship of long standing, and it was possible that one or two of the younger members, especially George, might further cement it in the blessed bonds of matrimony. So here Mr. Tarraway had his company made to his hand. So he went home happy and dreamed of a playbill whereon was written:

"Romeo (son to Montague), Mr. J. Ashton Tarraway."

And a little farther down:

"Juliet (daughter of Capulet), Miss Agnes Parkinson."

Agnes was certainly the prettiest of the Parkinson girls. The Maxwell Smiths were all good looking, especially George.

But at the very first meeting of the alliance and Mr. Tarraway he saw his hopes dashed. They listened with respect to his statement that he was disposed to fly somewhat high. But they were opposed to Shakespeare. George thought the fairest thing would be to put it to the vote. For Shakespeare voted Mr. Tarraway from conviction, and Miss Parkinson from tact. In favor of a good old farce and something sentimental to follow voted everybody else.

And that was the beginning of the end. Against the family alliance Mr. Tarraway was powerless. They flattered him hugely, and the more they flattered him the less did they do any one of the things that he wanted. When it came to the selection of a piece, it turned out that George had already looked out two little things that he thought would do, though he wished it clearly to be understood that he did not want to force them on anybody. The first was that old fashioned, rollicking piece, "Wooden Heads," full of fun and always a success. The second was that sweetly pretty little thing in one act entitled "An April Love Story."

"Now," said George, "on one thing I insist. Mr. Tarraway is organizing this entertainment, and Mr. Tarraway must have the right of veto. We all value his judgment, and it must overrule any opinion which we may form ourselves."

This was agreed upon at once without a single dissentient vote, and Mr. Tarraway was pleased. Then the two plays were read.

Mr. Tarraway did not like either of them. They were not his idea of the legitimate drama; neither did they contain a good Tarraway part, as he had conceived it. But he was made to understand that if he did upset everybody by going against the majority and vetoing these pieces he would be a poltroon, an ignoramus and a heartless cad. He did not exercise that veto.

"Of course," said George, "I don't dream of asking Mr. Tarraway to take any part in the farce. That is quite beneath his attention. It is all very well for us beginners, but I shouldn't like to see a man like Mr. Tarraway waste himself on it."

"I don't mind a little harmless fun," said Tarraway feebly.

"No," said Miss Agnes Parkinson; "there must be a limit to your kindness."

As to the sentimental piece, there was a unanimous cry that George must play the hero. Tall and handsome, he would look the part to perfection. Miss Agnes Parkinson said:

"Unless Mr. Tarraway wishes to play it himself. We must not forget that he is organizing this entertainment."

Mr. Tarraway disclaimed any desire to play the part, wherein he lied. George accepted it on condition that Mr. Tarraway played the manservant, which in George's opinion was a much more important part than you would think from hearing the piece read. He has seen a great success made with it.

After the second rehearsal they all, especially George, said that, though Mr. Tarraway did the part to perfection, it interfered with his duties as stage manager. They could not afford to lose him as stage manager. At the next rehearsal he was asked to give up the stage management, though for the life of them they did not know where to find another as good. The fact was that his clear enunciation and his splendid judgment marked him out as the ideal prompter. He resigned that post later, when it was found that Mrs. Minslow, who had taken £5 worth of tickets, wanted it for her son. As George said, with fine public spirit: "It is not as if we were doing this just to amuse ourselves. We must think of the choir fund. Besides, Mr. Tarraway has all the organizing to do, and he will be wanted in front."

Finally Mr. Tarraway was selected as the right person to take the money at the doors. In this capacity he did not take much money, but had the compensation of missing the entertainment.

The net result was a debt of £6 2s. 7d. And the vicar thinks that Mr. Tarraway might have put a little more energy into it. The families agree with him, especially George.

Electric Devices in Homes.

Many electric devices are now available for use in the home. They include small hand lamps which light at the touch of a spring; a pocket lamp and battery made flat like a folding camera; ornamental candles with miniature lights at their tip; a tiny lamp attached to the front of the clock, and small lamps for decorative purposes. A current is introduced in a house to supply power for flat irons, curling irons, coffee mills, ice cream freezers and sewing machines, and heat for chafing dishes and tea kettles.

New Jersey Officers' Salaries.

New Jersey amply compensates her state officers. The governor receives a salary of $10,000 a year; the secretary of state $6,000 and fees which make the office a very lucrative one; the attorney general $7,000 and the state treasurer and comptroller $6,000 each.

A $10,000 Harness Set.

The young Egyptian khedive is said to possess the most costly set of harness in the world. It is made of black leather, with chased gold buckles and collars ornamented with the same costly metal. The pad-cloths are also embroidered with gold, and the set is said to have cost £2,000. It is for four horses and is used on all state occasions.

New Parlor Cars.

Two parlor cars, named respectively "Janesville" and "Beloit," "spick and span new" from the builders have been received from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and will be placed at once in the service for which they were expressly built—between Chicago, Janesville and Madison.

The new cars have an interior finish of mahogany and are seventy-five feet in length. The exterior is the St. Paul standard color. In addition to the usual parlor, seating thirty people, each has a large observation room, a state room and buffet. The latter, besides being fitted for ordinary buffet service, is equipped with a broiler, from which steaks, chops, etc., can be served.

The equipment in service on the St. Paul road to and from Southern Wisconsin points has received many favorable comments. The new cars—the handsomest so far built—will complete the finest day trains leaving Chicago.

BEATS THE "BUFFAL" GRAFT

The Dixon (Ill.) Evening Telegraph heralds this warning:

A better graft than the "Buffalos" has made its appearance. It may not cost one so much in some cases, but it is sure to cost more than 11 cents if it is worked. The joker with a few kernels of corn in his pocket suddenly and innocently (?) asks the friend if he can give him a dollar for some "chicken feed" as small change is some times called. The friend, to be accommodating, says "yes" and hands out the dollar. The joker then pockets it and hands his victim several kernel of corn that he had in his pocket.

The most recent reports from the corn belt indicate, however, that the promoters of this game are likely to be defeated right at the start. Only the very rich men will be able to go around with a few kernels of corn in his pocket, and his dignity will render him harmless.

Clear Sky, Bolt Kills.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 15.—J. L. Lemmenway, a farmer in Bovina, a town a few miles north of this city, and the team of horses which were attached to the wagon on which he was at work were struck and instantly killed by lightning yesterday afternoon. The lightning came from a clear sky, as, with the exception of an approaching thunderstorm, there was scarcely a cloud in sight.

Monitor Helpless at Sea.

Chatham, Mass., Aug. 15.—The monitor Amphitrite, bound from New Bedford for Boston to be dry docked, is anchored in a heavy fog in Chatham roads with disabled machinery. Her condensing valve became disabled so the ship was helpless and was obliged to anchor. Admiral Sampson was wired for assistance and ordered the tug Peoria to tow the monitor around the cape.

Rogers' Estate $5,000,000.

New York, Aug. 15.—The work of the appraisers of the estate of the late Jacob S. Rogers has been completed. The figures will not be given out in advance of the report, but it is said that the estimate made by Mr. Rogers himself shortly before his death, when he placed the value of his property at a little over $5,000,000, will be found very close to the actual figures.

Gives Havana Twenty-One.

Havana, Aug. 15.—The constitutional convention decided that Havana shall elect 21 senatorial electors, Santa Clara, 18; Santiago, 18; Matanzas, 12; Pinar del Rio, 11; and Puerto Principe, 8. A voter can only vote for 14 electors in Havana, 12 in Santiago and Santa Clara, 8 in Matanzas, 7 in Pinar del Rio, and 5 in Puerto Principe. This recognizes the minorities.

Winters' Booty Was $320,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 15.—John Winters, who looted the vault of the Selby Smelting works at Vallejo Junction last Tuesday morning, secured as his booty gold bullion to the value of $320,000, or nearly $50,000 more than the sum originally given out. GET INSIDE.

Your Friends and Neighbors in Janesville, will show you How.

Rubbing the back won't cure backache.

A liniment may relieve, but can't cure

Backache comes from the inside, from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills get inside.

Here is Janesville proof that this is so:

Veteran A. F, Lee, of 61 Sharon St., carpenter, says:

For twenty years it troubled me a great deal, many days I could hardly keep at my work, and by rights should have staid at home and doctored. It was seldom that my back did not ache, and I have been completely laid up for three or four days at a stretch. When stooping or lifting sharp twinges penetrated the kidneys, the secretions from those organs were too frequent, and accompanied by pain. I used all kinds of remedies but none gave permanent relief. Obtaining Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co., I took them, and after the first three or four doses a noticeable change was brought about. I improved steadily from then on and on completing the treatment I was in good condition and am now well."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S. Also on sale at King's Pharmacy.

New York, Aug. 15.—Two communications have been received from the Colombian insurgent chief by Dr. A. J. Restrepo, representing the Liberal party in this country. It is further asserted that President Castro of Venezuela cabled to General Uribe-Uribe when the latter was in this city to come immediately to his assistance.

Disorder Grows at Malta.

Valetia, Island of Malta, Aug. 15.—The discontent here, arising from the language question and other grievances, is growing more acute. Sunday the union jack was torn to pieces in the streets by a large body of demonstrators. This was followed by the disfiguring of Queen Victoria's jubilee statue last night. The marble was deluged with damaging acid. The perpetrators have not been discovered.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by People's drug store and King's pharmacy.

Coup by California Bandit.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—One man, armed with a repeating rifle, held up a stage loaded with twenty passengers on the Calistoga and Clear Lake road about eighty miles north of this city today. After taking the express box, the mail bag and the watches and purses of passengers, the bandit ordered the stage to be driven on. He got a few hundred dollars, but the exact amount is not known. The passengers were all tourists. The highwayman wore over his face a handkerchief, in which holes were cut for the eyes. This is the third robbery in this section in the last three months.

Mr. Ferciot had been despondent of late on account of ill-health.

Cannot afford to be sick, they say. So, very often, they struggle along and keep up, where other women go to bed. To such women the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is beyond computation. It cures the common cause of ill-health in woman, derangement or disease of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 828 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "For three years I suffered continually. Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none, until induced, by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I began taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. After taking 'Favorite Prescription' I was built up until now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work, and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine, I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

INJURED ON BURNING BARGE.

Five Persons Have Narrow Escape From Death in New York.

New York, Aug. 15.—Five persons narrowly escaped death by the burning of the hay barge Merchant at the foot of West 44th street to-day. Three of them—Captain George W. Shear, his wife, and their 18year-old daughter Bertha—were badly hurt. Mrs. Shear is suffering from shock and severe burns, and her condition is critical. The daughter is suffering from shock, a broken ankle and internal injuries, and Captain Shear is severely burned. All three are in Roosevelt hospital.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 15.—Fred Frusher, a struggling young attorney of this city, has inherited a legacy of $25,000 from James Houseman, a rich uncle, who died in Durban, South Africa. Houseman made a fortune of $5,000,000 in South African mines.

Two Young Women Drowned.

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 15.—Misses Stella and Gertrude Ambrose, daughters of Captain Andrew Ambrose, a Savannah pilot, were drowned today while bathing in the surf off Furber's Point, Tybee Island.

Initial "J" in Late Hurly-Burly.

It is noted that the initial letter J played a conspicuous part in the names of those who were to the fore in Wall street's recent hurly-burly. J. Pierpont Morgan, J. R. Keene, J. J. Hill, J. Stillman, J. Schiff, J. H. Moore, J. W. Gates, J. Loeb and George J. Gould are some of the more notable instances.

WOMAN AND FASHION

Attractive Summer Gown.

The gown here sketched is of light blue muslin, with the long skirt beautifully cut, but finished without trimming. The bodice has a deep rounded yoke and open bolero cut in points of the muslin. The full vest and pointed collar are of white point d'esprit, the collar being edged with a grilling of black velvet ribbon. The ribbon grilling is used to adorn the edges of the bolero, while a rosette of much wider ribbon is placed on the bust. The belt is of ribbon, the collar band muslin, and the elbow sleeves are trimmed with points of esprit edged with velvet ribbon. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Dress Trivialities.

Most beautiful are the belts that are seen now, and especially pretty are those of metal work blended with tones of gold and bronze. An instance admired the other day on a smart frock had the eyes of peacock's tail feathers most deliciously executed on it, while the plaque was a representation of breast and wing feathers in enamel. This belt would be suitable to wear with either a cloth or lace dress, says Home Chat. Lace is less seen as the facing of revers than this time last year except when embroidered with gold, silver and colored silks. Old fashioned muslins wrought with embroidery are going to trim summer time's cambric shirts. Buckles are not to be allowed any rest.

Dresses Growing Shorter.

It is a noteworthy fact that dresses are gradually growing shorter and less cumbersome, a blessing in the matter of street robes. It must not be imagined from this that walking toilets are to be unequivocally short, but simply that they will be more reasonable, says the Chicago Record-Herald. Reception gowns, visiting gowns and house gowns, on the other hand, are a trifle longer than they have been through the last season, a circumstance that will hardly be objected to by women who have mastered the coquettish art of handling a train.

Tight Bodices Banished.

It is extraordinary how we have banished the tight bodice from the list of fashionable garments. A few seasons ago our "best" frocks were somewhat painful to wear, but now we can don them with a feeling of unbounded joy and satisfaction, for our bodices are cut in blouse form—that is to say, they have a lining—but it is a soft one and almost free from bones, and the outer fabric falls loose, becoming folds, while the vest is sure to be of lace or some transparent material, which is cool and comfortable as well as becoming.

DELAVAN WANTS JANESVILLE LINE

The citizens of Delavan are not pleased with the idea of having the Beliot, Delavan Lake and Janesville line run to Delavan from Beloit but prefer to have it run from Janesville. In speaking of the road the Delavan Enterprise says:

"Mr. H. H. Clough of Beloit, Janesville & Delavan Lake Electric road, will ask for a franchise at the coming meeting. As this is an important question for our citizens, the Enterprise devotes considerable space to it this week. The route Mr. Clough proposes, he will enter the city from the Darien road, cross the hill and enter on Geneva street, come up Main or Second street to Walworth avenue, and then down the street to the Catholic church, then south on Seventh street to the depot and on to Delavan lake. The only thing we do not like about his proposition, he wants to come from Beloit. A direct line to Janesville will benefit Delavan much more than Beloit, and if possible, the people of Janesville and Delavan should endeavor to have Mr. Clough change his route. We already have a direct line to Beloit and do not need another.

No Only Bay Rum.

The hottest places are the barber shops. It makes no difference how much clothes a customer may take off when he lies in a chair for a shave or beard-trim, or sits up for a hair cut. He must be encompassed with hot towels, hot aprons and hot air. A hot barber hangs over him, exuding caloric. The hair and beard clippings cling tenaciously to the perspiring neck, or find safe lodging places in eyes and ears. Is there no balm in Gilead?—New York Press.

The India balance sheet recently made up by the British government shows that the amount spent last year in the relief of sufferers by the famine was $91,950,000. It was expended chiefly in the relief camps and in the hospitals, and the money was largely subscribed in the United States.
